

Contact: Carli LaForgia
845-570-0879
claforgia@frs.com

March 2011
Impressions: 2,169,090

CHICAGO
SUN-TIMES

 47°F
Clouds And Sun

Good Evening
Thursday, March 31, 2011

Home | News | Sports | Business | Opinions | Lifestyles | Columnists

Roger Ebert | Books | Centerstage | Dining | Galleries | Gaming | Movies | Music

TV TALK: Though there has been no confirmation, reports that Camille Grammer is returning to "The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills" have been fueled by sightings of Kelsey Grammer's ex-wife and her reality show nemesis Kyle Richards — with several TV cameras rolling.

† Jennifer Garner will be giving Agatha Christie's iconic Miss Marple a sexy, young twist. The actress will star in and co-produce with Disney a film based on the legendary fictional crime solver — a concept all involved hope becomes a new franchise for Garner.

ON THE RUN: Among the legion of runners in the FRS Fuels Chi Lakefront Run this weekend will be TV personality Maria Menounos — boosting the Chicago Area Runners Association's "Road Scholars" program and helping raise funds for Lance Armstrong's Livestrong Foundation. It all kicks off at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Chicago History Museum's north parking lot.

QUITE THE RUN: We need to note a special Chicago theater benchmark happening Saturday. That's when Ellen Stoneking, the only original cast member in "Co-Ed Prison Sluts" still regularly playing in the show, ends her 22-year engagement in what has become Our Town's longest-running musical.

The Annoyance Theatre production has featured Stoneking as Dame Toulouse, an imprisoned inmate who believes she is a famous actress and that prison is just another of her many notable venues. The actress created the role in 1989 with an ensemble directed by Annoyance founder and artistic director Mick Napier.

Stoneking, also a screenwriter, is now going to turn to other acting gigs and her writing projects.